

Back to Business

Planning for New Realities in a Post-COVID-19 World

The gradual process of reopening economies by lifting government-mandated stay-at-home orders and non-essential business closures will likely prove challenging, particularly for companies that operate across borders.

Mayer Brown's COVID-19 Global Response Team, a multidisciplinary group of lawyers, has mobilized to provide comprehensive and coordinated guidance for your business at every stage of the pandemic.

The team has created a Back to Business Navigator dedicated to helping companies anticipate, interpret and adjust to evolving law and regulations to ensure that you are keeping abreast of regulations and planning accordingly to minimize litigation risk.

The navigator offers guidance on which industry sectors are being affected by restrictions, especially as the majority of states have begun to relax those measures. Users can draw from a menu of locations, by industry and business segment, to assess the implications of the latest government actions.

Because the rules governing this area are changing rapidly, our navigator is under continuous review. Please contact the firm's COVID-19 Essential Business Team at FW-SIG-COVID-19-Future-Planning-Team@mayerbrown.com or your usual Mayer Brown contact for advice on the most up-to-date position.
